NEWS BY THE PAPERS.

A STAGE TRAGEDY IN CHICAGO.

A Woman Shoots her Husband at Wood's Theatre.

On Tuesday night last a tragedy occurred on the stage of Wood's Theatre, Chicago, which was not down on the bills. Just before the performance commenced an actor, named Beach, was shot by his wife for the following reasons:

About twelve months ago Beach eloped and married a daughter of Mr. Alexander Randall, of Chicago. The girl was only seventeen years of age, with light curling hair, fair complexion, blue eyes, and was regarded as very pretty. The parties only lived together for a little while, the wife going to visit some friends in Buffalo, and the husband taking the position of "utility man" of Wood's Theatre. Some months ago the husband said that he went to Buffalo in disguise and there found that his wife was living in adulterous intercourse with another actor. He came back and filed a bill of divorce, which was printed in the newspapers. She seeing it immediately returned to Chicago and expostulated with him, promising if he would withdraw the bill she would again live with him. This he consented to do, but a week or two elapsed and he failed to fulfill his promise. She now threatened him and exacted another promise that he would comply with her wishes. Finding, after a few days, that he had not done so, she loaded a pistol, put several cartridges in her pocket, and on Tuesday night went to the theatre. Again she asked him to keep his promise and on receiving his refusal she fired the pistol, the ball taking effect in the neck of Beech, near the spinal column. She dropped the pistol, and coolly walked away, but in a few minutes was arrested and taken to the police station. On the road she chatted pleasantly, and smiled as if she had not been guilty of any evil deed. Sometime afterward her father visited the station house, and expressed a wish to finish the job if his daughter had not done so. He was locked up. Beach, although badly wounded, may recover.

An Extraordinary Story of Treasures Discovered in Mount Cenis Tunnel.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22d.—The World has an extraordinary story rivaling the "moon hoax," of gold and gems found by the square yard in Mount Cenis tunnel, including diamonds, sapphires, rubies, topaz, emeralds, gold, silver, malachite, in endless profusion. The work in the tunnel was stopped, and France and Italy are dividing the spoils. The original discoverer was murdered by his fellow workmen, one of whom was arrested by the Government. He had previously given his deposition of the facts of the discovery to the correspondent who furnishes the statement to the World.

Apprehended Difficulties at Mobile.

CAIRO, Sept. 20.—Reports from Mobile represent the situation in that city and vicinity, with respect to the negroes, as so serious as to call for the immediate adoption of measures to prevent an outbreak. The Governor of the State is said to have ordered out a sufficient force for the purpose.

Alabama Convention.

MONTGOMERY, Sept. 23.—The Convention passed an ordinance dividing the State into six Congressional districts.

The Committee on the Secession Ordinance will report early next week.

SLAVERY ABOLISHED.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 22.—The Convention has passed the Ordinance abolishing slavery by a vote of 89 to 3, against the amendment of the Constitution, and erasing all provisions relating to slaves.

The Legislature, next session, will undoubtedly pass laws to protect the freedmen in person and property, and guard the State against the evils arising from the sudden emancipation of the slaves.

Railroad Accident.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 23.—A railroad accident occurred on the Rensallaear and Saratoga bridge this morning. The train consisting of a locomotive and two passenger cars, was backing towards the city, for the purpose of starting out again. The swing draw was open, and the usual signals displayed, but the engineer misunderstood them. The locomotive plunged into the water forty feet deep, followed by one passenger car.—The other had a narrow escape.

Fortunately there were only three passengers on the train at the time. These were not in the submerged car, and escaped. The engineer and firemen escaped by jumping from the locomotive and clinging to the bridge.

The Cholera.

The State Department is in the receipt of voluminous despatches from our Consuls at Constantinople, Smyrna, Port Mahon and Barcelona, giving further information of the ravages of the cholera in various parts of Europe. The reports from Constantinople are most alarming, the deaths from this disease having reached the number of two thousand per day. At Smyrna the epidemic was checked some time since, but it has broken out afresh and is now spreading to a frightful extent.

From California---Treasure Coming Forward.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—The steamship Colorado sailed to-day for Panama, with $1,350,000 in gold for New York, and $670,000 for England.

A discharged soldier named Joseph Graves, company B, Twenty-eight Ohio Volunteers, with plenty of greenbacks and "great expectations" married Celia Bowen, in Wheeling, the other day. Owing to some disagreeable rumors of pecuniary transactions a la Ketchum he fled from his young wife two days after the marriage.

NORTH CAROLINIANS PARDONED.—The following North Carolinians have been pardoned: William Coleman, Jas. W. Dick, W. H Alexander, B. A. Sellars, A. B. F. Strickland, Saml. Watkins and Wm. Hollister.

THE DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Editor.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1865.

OUR TERMS.

THE SENTINEL is issued every morning (Sunday excepted) at the following rates:

For six months, - - - - -	$5.00
For one month - - - - -	1,00
" two months - - - - -	2.00

Our terms are invariably in advance. The scarcity of money however, obliges us to say to our friends, that responsible and prompt persons who desire the Sentinel need not delay sending us their names at once, who can send us the Cash in a short time. The money may be sent us by the Rail Road Conductors or the Express Company.

President Johnson's Policy.

The principles which guide President Johnson in his policy of restoring the Southern States to their former status, are eminently constitutional, humane, and judicious. Devoted to civil liberty, pledged to the maintenance of the Constitution, opposed to centralization, he recognises the existence of the Southern States as States, suspended in their legitimate powers by the revolution it is true, but by no means forfeiting their inherent character, he proposes to them to return to the bosom of the Union, by yielding to the inexorable demands of events, adjusting their Constitutions to the altered position of affairs and pledging future fidelity to the Union and the government. In order to give to the country unmistakable evidences of the fidelity and sincerity of the South, he demands that those who contribute to the restoration of the States, shall be men of undoubted loyalty and fidelity.

In carrying out this policy, the President has shown a growing liberality. He takes no selfish, sordid or narrow view of his responsibilities. He is magnanimous—unhesitatingly declaring his confidence in the professions of fidelity of the South. Making the great Washington his examplar, he secures the confidence and affection of the people by trusting them. His recent declarations in this regard, should be engraved upon the rocks. Hear him:

General Washington declared that the people, or the militia, was the arm of the constitution, or the arm of the United States, and, as soon as it is practicable, the original design of the government should be resumed under the principles of the great charter of freedom handed down to the people by the founder of the republic. The people must be trusted with their government, and if trusted my opinion is that they will act in good faith, and restore their former constitutional relations with all the States composing the Union."

His policy becomes the more liberal as he finds the South more and more appreciative. Many of his recent pardons show that he is compassionate—that whatever of irritation or vindictiveness he may have felt, these are giving place to a generous feeling for his own people, whom he understands thoroughly and whose confidence he intends to secure.

We rejoice that the same spirit which now seems to actuate the President towards the South, is being kindled in the bosom of the North. The increasing popularity of the President's plan is becoming more and more manifest. Not only is it endorsed entirely by the Northern Democrats, but the radicals are becoming more chary in their opposition. They are evidently becoming alarmed at the growing strength of the President, and hence their unwillingness to break with him. We predict that he will either force them to be silent or he will drive them to the wall.

Amnesty Oath.

The Charlotte Democrat contains the following from Gov. Holden. We are glad of the announcement, as many persons were laboring under the impression that the books were closed. Many were prevented from taking the oath before the recent election by various causes, we presume, who will be glad to avail themselves of the privilege at an early day. We suppose a similar order has been sent to all the Counties:

State of North Carolina, Executive Department,
RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 15, 1865.

To the Clerk of Mecklenburg County Court:

SIR:—You are hereby directed to retain the Amnesty Oath books until further orders, as they will be kept open to allow the people to take said oath up to the time of voting for Governor, members of Congress, &c.

W. W. HOLDEN,
Provisional Governor.

WARREN.—A friend writing us from Warren says, that Wm. Eaton, jr., Esq., received almost the unanimous vote cast on the 21st. Mr. Joyner was announced but a short time before the election and received a good vote.

We learn that the small vote at Warrenton was owing to the absence of the magistrates to qualify the voters. About 200 persons were prevented from voting—the gentleman whose duty it was to qualify them, having removed from the place.

The Drought--The Crops.

The early corn crop was a very good one for the quantity of land in cultivation, but the late corn crop has been materially cut off by the excessive drought which has prevailed in many portions of the State for the last two months. The gardens in this section are nearly worthless. The excessive heat and drought added to an unusual quantity of insects, have dried up and consumed most of the vegetables.

The State Convention

Convenes in this city on Monday next, the 2d of October. It will be a favorable opportunity for our friends to subscribe for the Sentinel and to send us the Cash. The proceedings of the Convention will be fully reported for the Sentinel.

THE CONVENTION.—The Convention to amend the Constitution of the State of North Carolina will assemble in Raleigh on Monday, the 2d day of October. We hope it will not remain in session any longer than is actually necessary to make the amendments required by the changed condition of affairs. No doubt there will be propositions to change the Constitution in many respects, but whether the Convention will be disposed to extend its action remains to be seen.—For our own part, we would prefer to see the right of suffrage curtailed rather than extended; a property qualification required for voters; a change made in the manner of appointing Magistrates, so as to prevent such a large number as heretofore from being appointed, and require that they may be suitable persons morally and intellectually; the appointment of Constables, &c., given to the Judges of the Superior Court; and the election of Judges by the Legislature for a term of five years instead of for life.—Charlotte Democrat.

We are pleased to find that our own views accord so well with those of our cotemporary of the Democrat. The Convention we think will have a good stock of working men, who will be anxious to despatch business. The work before it will consume but little time, if the members should address themselves at once to the task. There are several things named by the Democrat which are important, and ought to be done. A change in the plan of appointing Magistrates we think very desirable. The number should be limited and they should be well qualified for the office.

Is it better to have a short Convention now and leave important improvements to the future? Is it safe to have Conventions more frequent? Is it not best just at this point, to stop and adjust the Constitution entire to suit the civilization and the demands of the times—to re write and give us a clear, easily understood and one simple document for a Constitution? What is or what will be the Constitution of North Carolina, if only modified to suit our new relations, cannot be determined by one half of the people. We need one simple document, instead of parcels and patches, as it now is.

Repudiation.

In several Counties at the late election, candidates have been defeated and others have been elected upon the issue of repudiation. This will account for the defeat of several men of ability, who very properly risked their success, by opposing a measure what they could not regard in any other light than as disreputable to the State and the age in which we live.

The necessity which some plead for the repudiation of all debts, if it exists, may be obviated by resorting to a bankrupt law framed purposely and solely for the relief of honest debtors. In this the principle of repudiation is discarded, while relief is afforded to those who need it.

We have little or no apprehensions that the repudiators will be sufficiently strong in the Convention to carry the measure. That body will act wisely to do nothing on the subject—To begin with it, it will be difficult to check the demoralizing spirit which so readily affects every question now mooted by the public.

The Grain Crop.

We again call the attention of the planters of the State to the importance of seeding this fall, the largest possible crops of wheat, rye and oats. This is rendered especially necessary in view of the scarcity of labour, and the difficulty of employing regular hands for the cultivation of corn, cotton or tobacco. The dry weather militates against a fall crop, but we trust in a few days it will be more seasonable.

Mr. James H. Moore.

Our old friend, Mr. Moore, is announced as the Local and News editor of the Standard, and business Agent. We congratulate the Standard on obtaining such valuable aid—a help that we feel the need of greatly, and which we would at once supply if we could afford it. Mr. Moore merits all the good things said of him. By the way, he is still a candidate for the Principal Clerkship to the Convention.

FIRE AT TARBORO.—We regret to learn that a fire occurred in Tarboro on Saturday morning last at 3 o'clock. It commenced in Mr. Shaw's warehouse. The stores of Mr. Williams, Dillon & Bro., Mr. Shaw, a jewellers store and other buildings, were destroyed. Mr. Richard Hoskins was the largest sufferer. There is doubt as to the cause.

RESIGNED.—The Charlotte papers state that Rev. G. M. Everhart, Rector of the Episcopal Church in that place, has resigned. Regret is expressed at his resignation.

For the Sentinel.

PLYMOUTH, Sept. 21st, 1865.

MR. EDITOR,—I have been here several days, have attended the election and voted for delegates to the convention. There is no opposition (in this county Washington,) Col. John C. Johnston, will be the delegate. Upon the issue of negro suffrage he is opposed to it in every form, and I cannot find a man who is not of the same opinion.

There is a general feeling to let "by gones" be "by gones," and to give to the administration of President Johnson and Governor Holden zealous and earnest support. I am assured and I find by mixing with the people that a majority in this county were sympathizers with the South, in the recent war, but I find no man who does not freely adopt the plan of the President to reunion; not a single individual who does not sincerely desire the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

The town is in utter ruin; but four houses are left. All the churches have been sacked and torn to pieces. No court house or jail. There are a few houses that have been fitted up, and are filled with goods, and many others are flocking on to the Northern cities to purchase.

A general interest is felt all through the country in the election of B. F. Moore, Esq. to the Convention. His defeat will be deeply regretted by every body here. H.

Vallandigham on Gen. Cox and Chief Justice Chase.

Mr. Vallandigham delivered one of his characteristic speeches some days ago at Wapakoneta, Ohio. He thus notices Gen. Cox, the Republican candidate for Governor, Chief Justice Chase &c.:

PERSONAL TO GENERAL COX.

I observe that an attempt is being made throughout the State by orators of the Republican party, and, I am sorry to say, by the candidate for Governor of that party, not to discuss principles, not to meet the question of negro equality and negro suffrage, and immediate restoration of the Union, but to appeal to supposed or actual prejudices in the minds of a large portion of the citizens of Ohio against the gentleman who addresses you, who is not a candidate for office, but merely a private citizen like yourselves. Some one has suggested to General Cox as a convenient mist or fog under which he escapes the disagreeable necessity of answering fully upon these questions, by making assaults upon Mr. Vallandigham. One of these was made before the assembling of the Democratic State Convention, in the town of Warren, Trumbull County, and was reported correctly, I am sure, in the Cincinnati Commercial. It was my purpose at one time, during the State Convention, to call attention to the fact and denounce it, but supposing it would not be repeated, and that General Cox had, meantime, satisfied himself that he had misstated me, I forbore. But I have since observed that it is the burden of every speech he makes. I have not seen a single speech or sketch of anything uttered by him in which this statement is not deliberately repeated. Here it is under the head of "Vallandighamism."

"One," says General Cox, "who was but recently their (that is, the Democratic,) candidate for the Governorship of this State, openly proposed the formation of a new confederacy, to be made up of the Northern States."

Now, either General Jacob Dolson Cox [laughter,]

"Phœbus, what a name
To fit the sound of trump of fame!"

[laughter] has not read what I proposed, and what I advocated and defended in an elaborate speech, and therefore has no right to attempt to describe it; or he has read my propositions in Congress, and my argument in defense of them in which event he has deliberately and willingly falsified the record. In plain, Anglo-Saxon vernacular—he has lied, [Applause, and cries of, "Give it to him."] This is strong language, and except in reference to Benjamin F. Wade, for a similar offense, committed under similar responsibilities, I have never uttered it before. But Gen. Cox is not only the candidate of the Republican party, but he is to day the military commandant of the State of Ohio—the Burnside of this district. (Laughter) He is therefore in every way responsible, and I am in every way responsible to him. I choose to meet it, because I find it repeated, not once, not twice, but in every speech he delivers to the people. Sometimes in one form, sometimes in another, every time false; and I now make the record here, to be reported, that it may reach him when he shall address the Republican party on next Saturday, and if he fails to do that, it may reach him through the newspapers that he may make the correction in which event I will retract the language which I have applied to him, and not before. (Applause.) I never made any such proposition, nor anything resembling it. The particular statement is not even a respectable rehash of the old, exploded falsehood, that I proposed to divide the States into four distinct and separate nationalities or republics. I never did. I did propose, and those who are familiar with the records of Congress know it—I did propose to divide the States into classes in the Senate of the United States and in the electoral college, inside of the Union, and to preserve the Union. The preamble that accompanied the proposition distinctly avows that the purpose is to save the Union from impending disintegration. (Applause.) That was my proposition. I did not go quite as far as Andrew Johnson did, just two months before me. The present President of the United States, Andrew Johnson, proposed in December, 1860, to divide the United States, and recognize the division of the United States permanently, and by the Constitution, by amendment to that instrument, into two sections—the slaveholding and the non-slaveholding sections: and that the President, one term, should be taken from the South—a slaveholder, and in the interest of the slave power, and the next term from the Northern States—and so on alternately, as long as the Government should endure. That was the proposition of the gentleman who is now President of the United States, who can make and unmake military district commanders, who can now revoke their orders when issued in the interest of arbitrary power, as he did the order of one Major General Slocum the other day in the State of Mississippi. What was the motive of Mr. Johnson in what he did in December, 1860? The same as mine—to bring peace and quiet to the country, to preserve the Union, to put an end to the agitation of this question, by requiring, however, in the case of his proposition, that the people of the United States should make a slaveholder President of the United States one four years, and a non-slaveholder the next. I proposed to ignore slavery as the dividing line, and, for the sake of peace and union, that there should be four sections recognized in the Electoral College in the elections of President of the United States, and upon certain questions which might arise there and in the Senate of the United States. That proposition was as much for the benefit of the Northwest as for the South, and as much for the benefit of the East and New England as of any other section.

PERSONAL TO CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE.

We had rebels before Jeff. Davis became the head of the Southern Confederacy. This particular rebellion that I speak of is one instance. The case growing out of it was prosecuted before the United States Court. In that case the Governor of Ohio, Salmon P. Chase, now Chief Justice of the United States and lately a tourist among the negroes of the Southern States, as Governor of Ohio sent down the then Attorney General of State, Mr. Wolcott, afterward Assistant Secretary of War under Edwin M. Stanton, to defend the violators of law and the armed rebels of 1857, and to threaten armed resistance in case the decision was not in conformity with the desires of the Governor and the men who belonged to his political party. Who were the disunionists then? The men who proclaimed that the Constitution was a league with death and the Union a covenant with hell, or were the Union men the Democratic party, the founders of which laid also the foundation of the Union, and whose statesmen maintained that Union in peace through compromises without public debt and without direct taxation, and without provost marshals, and without conscriptions for three and seventy years. [Applause.]

THE TEST OF LOYALTY.

For four years past the Democratic party has been denounced as a disloyal party. Why? Because, in the exercise of ancient, constitutional, guaranteed rights, it insisted upon scrutinizing the conduct of public servants. Opposition to the Administration has, for four years past, been the test of disloyalty. Now let us see where stand our adversaries. To-day they are the disloyal party of the United States, according to their own theory. To-day they are opposing the scheme of reconstruction which will immediately restore the Southern States to the Union, as proposed by President Johnson. By their own argument, in opposing the Administration they oppose the Government, and they are disloyal. Being disloyal, and there being no trial by jury, and no habeas corpus, they are fit victims for military arrests, and ought immediately to be placed under guard. [Laughter] How would they like it? If it is disloyal in a Democrat to oppose a Republican Administration, it certainly is more disloyal in a Republican to oppose a Republican Administration. [Laughter] I say that in opposing the immediate reconstruction of the Union, and in demanding, as their orators and newspapers do, that the Southern States, which are now ready to return to the Union, and to yield obedience and fidelity to the Constitution of the United States, and in insisting that they shall be kept out for ten, twenty or twirty years, or for an indefinite period, they are disloyal men, and let the cry now be fastened upon them. [Applause.] If it was a matter of reproach and opprbrium to Democrats that they oppose the Administration, let it be equally reproachful to those who now oppose the President in his efforts to return the Southern States to their constitutional rights. But they are disloyal upon higher principles than that of opposing the Administration. Whoever is for overthrowing the Constitution, for destroying it, for violating it, is disloyal. The only true loyalty, if the word could appropriately be used under a republican form of government, is obedience to the Constitution of the United States, the fundamental law of the land. By that test they are disloyal [Applause.] To-day they are opposed to the return of the Southern States. You, soldiers of the Fifty-seventh, and of other regiments within my hearing—you of the three months volunteers—what went you forth for? What were you told was to be the object of your enlistment? It was to break down the military power of the South, and to restore the Constitution and the laws which had been violated. You never would have enlisted had you been told that the object of the war was to overthrow the Constitution and establish a permanent military monarchy. How stand we now? The military power of the South is broken down, the Southern Confederacy has vanished into thin air; Jefferson Davis is a prisoner at Fortress Monroe, and there is not an armed foe to the Government of the United States from the Potomac to the Rio Grande.

The Auburn Advertiser, which is styled the home organ of Secretary Seward, states that President Johnson has decided that his administration shall be a unit on the subject of restoration. We are also told that Mr Weed, who has the confidence of the President, has advised the radical office holders that they cannot expect to retain their places if they persist in opposing the Government.

An "Old Republican" in the National Intelligencer questions the right of Messrs. Stevens, Chase, Sumner, and others of that school, to prescribe a creed for the republican party—and intimates that if these politicians are not satisfied, they had better organize a party of their own.

Tuition free. The whole Baptist Church of the Southern States is interested in this Institution.

"NEGRO EQUALITY."—Hon. John Cessna, chairman of the Union State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, in an address to the people of that State, says, "that negro suffrage and negro equality are not, and could not possibly be, an issue in the October contest" for officers in Pennsylvania.

It is noticed as a remarkable fact that the Northern Methodist bishops who, twenty years ago, voted in favor of the right of the Southern Church to its property, are now demanding that their title to the same shall be annulled—in other words, that the question shall be re-opened and re-agitated.

The Statesville American of the 15th instant, says:

We are informed that a couple of negroes, in Rowan county—man and wife—possessed of an infant, who desired to enjoy freedom, without encumbrance, before repairing to Salisbury, deposited their child in a hollow log, stopped up the end, and piling brush around set fire to the pile with a candle. The flames, more merciful than the fiendish parents, refused to consume the helpless one, and went out. The next day a passer-by hearing the cries in the log, went to ascertain the cause, and rescued the infant from famine and death. Report says the would-be murderers were sent for, soundly thrashed (they should be hung,) and ordered to provide for the child in future.

THE NEW BONNET.—The new bonnets which the milliners have just displayed in New York are thus described:

A few French bonnets are on exhibition, but there is no great change from last season, except they are made lower in the neck, leaving less room for waterfalls, which are waning. A very pretty bonnet is trimmed with daisies, and a humming bird is placed among the down of ostrich feather. Gilt ornaments are much used, some of the designs representing coins, so that if a lady cannot have gold dollars in her purse, she can at least bear their semblance about her.

The last Letter ever written by the late Bishop Gen. Polk.

(From the Louisville Journal, 18th.)

We present below a copy of the last autograph letter ever written, probably, by the late Bishop Gen. Polk, of the late Confederate army. It was captured(?) by chief bugler Joseph Roskyevich (Roszkiewiez), of the gallant Eleventh Kentucky Cavalry, at Salisbury, North Carolina. It was addressed, it will be perceived, to his daughter, just after her marriage. The original is in our possession, and can be obtained by the lady to whom it was addressed. We are also desired to say that the watch of Bishop Gen. Polk, which was captured with much other property at the same time, is now in the hands of the same gentleman, and is at the disposal of the family of the deceased.

We knew Bishop Polk personally and well, and, aside from all political questions or considerations, always regarded him as a pure, Christian gentleman—an opinion that we have never changed. Let us not judge the dead. To their own Master they stand or fall.

New Hope Church, fifteen miles from Marietta, June 1 1864

My Dear Lilly: Since I heard of your marriage I have been more constantly and intently engaged than I have been in any campaign I have ever made, and so have not found time to write to you, as I had hoped.

* * You have now, my dear child, entered upon a new field and under God's blessing [upon which, if you look to Him, you may count] your future happiness and success will depend very much upon yourself. Do always what is right, not calculating what is expedient, but try and find out what is right, and with a pure heart and true devotion go straight forward and do it. Be always kind and considerate of the feelings and rights of others, and you will be very apt to have your feelings and rights respected. Watch against impatience of spirit. If you keep your heart always under the dominion of the grace of God's spirit, you will be very apt to have your own power of self-control complete and perfect. That is a thing to be cultivated, and is the fruit of watchfulness and prayerfulness. Let it be the business of your life to strive for large attainments in that way. It will be your greatest safety from yourself, the world and the devil, and will be a shield and tower of strength for you.

I know not what Mr. Huger is doing or what the commission he now holds, but suppose he has something in the quartermaster's department. I trust it cannot be a great while before this war will be at an end, and we shall then find field enough for us all to make a living in, and that we shall in the mean time practice such economy as shall enable us to live through the war.

I am now looking for an attack of the enemy on our lines, and avail of the pause and quiet that prevails to write you these lines.

Our army is in good spirits and confident, under the blessing of God, of success in the coming conflict. It is also in high condition. Our trust is in God.

May the good Lord bless and keep you and yours, my dear child, in all your coming experiences and trials of life, and afterward receive you to glory; is the prayer of your affectionate father. L. POLK.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNOR PERRY.—All who have met Governor Perry since his assumption of the duties of his high and responsible position have felt that no matter how highly they have regarded him before, he more than realizes their ideas of "the right man in the right place." Plain, sensible, and thoroughly informed as to all matters under his charge; independent, firm and honest, with no vindictiveness for the past, nor ambition for the future to gratify, unswayed by any desire to reward friends, and with no enemies to punish, his administration is a source of satisfaction and gratitude to all who realize the blessing of having such a ruler over our State in this delicate and difficult crisis of our affairs.—Cor. Charleston Courier.

THE COTTON LOAN.—A letter from Secretary Seward to Minister Adams has been made public, which, in general terms, sets forth that the United States has never and never will assume any of the debts contracted by the Confederates. This is in consequence of the late ruling by the British Vice Chancellor, in a suit in which the United States was a party, that we are bound to assume and pay the Confederate cotton loan. Mr. Seward has directed Mr. Adams to repudiate this decision, and, if necessary to bring the matter to the notice of Earl Russell. The United States will insist on its claim to the restoration of cotton held by the English merchants as security for their advances to the "Confederacy."

DAILY SENTINEL

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1865.

No Night in Heaven.

"And there shall be no night there."—Rev. 22, 5.

No night shall be in Heaven—no gathering gloom
Shall o'er this glorious landscape ever come,
No tears shall fall in sadness o'er these flowers
That breathe their fragrance through celestial bowers.

No night shall be in Heaven—no dreadful hour
Of mental darkness, or the tempter's power,
Across those skies no envious cloud shall roll,
To dim the sunlight of the enraptured soul.

No night shall be in heaven—forbid to sleep—
Those eyes no more their mournful vigil keep;
Their fountains dried, their tears all wiped away;
They gazed undazzled on eternal day.

No night shall be in Heaven—no sorrows reign—
No secret anguish—no corporeal pain—
No shivering limbs—no burning fever there,
No soul's eclipse—no winter of despair.

No night shall be in Heaven—but endless noon;
No fast declining sun or waning moon:
But there the lamb shall yield perpetual light,
'Mid pastures green and waters ever bright.

No night shall be in Heaven—no darkened room,
No bed of death, no silence of the tomb,
But breezes ever fresh with love and truth,
Shall brace the frame with an immortal youth.

No night shall be in Heaven! But night is here—
The night of sorrow, and the night of fear,
I mourn the ills that now my steps attend,
And shrink from others that may yet impend.

No night shall be in Heaven! O had I faith
To rest in what the faithful witness saith—
That faith should make these hideous phantoms flee,
And leave no night, henceforth, on earth to me.

A Romantic Story of Stratford, Connecticut.

That such a town as Stratford should afford anything in the way of romantic personal histories was hardly to be expected, but the subjoined story is authentic as well as interesting. At the commencement of the present century a young man made his appearance in the village, and spent a few weeks at the tavern which then existed to afford shelter to the stage coach traveler. Whence he came and what his business none could guess. Directly opposite the tavern stood the small cottage and the forge of a blacksmith named Folsom. He had a daughter who was the beauty of the village, and it was her fortune to captivate the heart of the young stranger. He told his love, said that he was from Scotland, that he was travelling incog. but in confidence gave her his real name, claiming that he was heir to a large fortune. She returned his love and they were married. A few weeks thereafter the stranger told his wife that he must visit New Orleans: he did so, and the gossips of the town made the young wife unhappy by their disagreeable hints and jeers. In a few months the husband returned, but before a week had elapsed he received a large budget of letters, and told his wife he must at once return to England, and must go alone. He took his departure, and the gossips had another glorious opportunity to make a confiding woman wretched. To all but herself it was a clear case of desertion; the wife became a mother, and for two years lived on in silence and in hope.

At the end of that time a letter was received by the Stratford beauty from her husband, directing her to go at once to New York with her child, taking nothing with her but the clothes she wore, and embark in a ship for her home in England. On her arrival in New York she found a ship splendidly furnished with every convenience and luxury for her comfort, and two servants ready to obey every wish that she might express. The ship duly arrived in England, and the Stratford girl became duly the mistress of a superb mansion, and, as the wife of a baronet, was saluted by the aristocracy as Lady Samuel Sterling.—On the death of her husband many years ago, the Stratford boy succeeded to the title and wealth of his father, and in the last edition of the "Peerage and Baronetage," he is spoken of as the issue of Miss Fulsom, of Stratford, North America."—When the late Prof. Silliman visited England some years since, he had the pleasure of meeting lady Sterling at a dinner party, and was delighted to answer her many questions about her birthplace in Connecticut.—The Nation.

All Gone.

With the exception of the front of the old Exchange Bank, no monumental pile of bricks is now standing on Main street to tell the awful ravages of the "Fire King" on the ever-memorable 3d of April. All others have given way to the energy and perseverance of our citizens, and hands are now busy in pulling this front down.—In other portions of the city burnt walls are standing, but preparations are rapidly being completed by which they, too, will give place to new buildings, which will be better adapted to the wants of the city than those which were formerly used by our business men. Among other walls which have recently been taken down are those of the old Gallego Mills. Masons will at once be put on them, and we may soon expect to see the new walls arise. A drawing of a splendid four-story house, which is to be erected at the corner of Main and Twelfth streets, over the site lately occupied by the Richmond Enquirer and S. M. Price & Co., was shown us yesterday.

It gives us great satisfaction to note these changes in our city, for it shows that if our citizens have not the money, they have at least the credit, which will enable them to go on in such an extensive manner with the permanent improvements and adornments of Richmond.

THE MISSOURI TEST OATH DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL.—The St. Louis Dispatch of Friday publishes the following telegram:

RICHMOND, Mo, Sept. 9, 1865.

Editor St. Louis Dispatch:

An able opinion was delivered by Judge King this morning, declaring the provisions of the new Constitution requiring attorneys to take the "oath of loyalty" unconstitutional, so far as its retrospective and ex post facto measures are concerned.

The Rev. Dr. Newman, of New York, who waited on the President the other day, to see if he could not get permission to retain possession of a certain church edifice, in New Orleans, which he had occupied since the time of General Butler, was formerly pastor of the Fourth street Methodist Church in New York. He is said to be quite disgusted at the President's refusal to acquiesce in his request, and to have already written to his friends in New York that "the war is a dead failure."

NOTICE.

ON Thursday night, 4th May last, I was robbed of thirty N. C. State bonds of $1,000 each, by three or more persons, one of whom was a black man and two were white. Ten numbered from one to ten inclusive and were payable on 1st July 1864. (Of these No. 6 has been recovered) Ten from 137 to 147 inclusive, payable 1st July 1865. Ten from 610 to 619 inclusive, dated 1st January 1860, and issued under an "Act authorizing the public Treasurer to sell the bonds of the State for certain purposes" ratified 16th February 1859, chapter 43. Said bonds were payable to Seth Jones or bearer; but were registered, and therefore, not transferable by delivery: see act of 1856 chapter 16. A few Coupons only were attached to the first twenty. I was robbed also of two certificates of Bank Stock: one of Bank of North Carolina for 200 shares, No. 58. The other of the Bank of Cape Fear for 201 shares.

PROSPECTUS
THE SENTINEL.

"I WOULD RATHER BE RIGHT THAN BE PRESIDENT.
—Henry Clay.

As a means of support for his family and to contribute to the promotion of general intelligence, of right thought and action, the perpetuity of the Union of the States and the prosperity of North Carolina, the subscriber proposes, on his own responsibility, to connect with a general printing business, the publication of an independent, high-toned, political, literary and news journal in the city of Raleigh. He expects to establish the business and issue the journal, so soon as the regular mail facilities are restored to the State. It will be printed on entirely new type, press, &c, in the highest style of the art.

Besides devoting his whole time to the editorial conduct of the paper, with such other help as will be required, he expects to engage fifteen or twenty of the ablest pens of the State to contribute to its columns regularly. In general character, its model will be the "National Intelligencer" in its palmiest days. It will be issued daily, semi weekly and weekly, as the wants of the public demand; and as it will contain a faithful record of the history of the times, all valuable State papers, dissertations on constitutional law and political economy, as well as political, literary moral and scientific essays of permanent value, the weekly will be printed in large octavo form for binding and preservation. As a family newspaper the weekly will be every way desirable.

The war has demonstrated fully, the strength and power of the R public to maintain the government established by our fathers, against all attempts to dismember or destroy it; that the Union of these States under one general government still receives the sanction and protection of Almighty God; the absurdity and impracticability of the State right's doctrine of secession, and the impossibility of perpetuating African slavery in the United States. We accept these tes hings as a solution of the war.

In politics, "The Sentinel" will neither be sound on the ne hand nor factiously partizan on the other. Its political an mus will be imbibed from the fountain of conservatism drank at by the illustrious Henry Clay and the fathers of the Republic, and not from the pools of Northern or Southern radicalism. It will neither be agrarian nor aristocratic. It will not labor to bring down or level any one, but to purify and elevate all.

It shall be a leading aim of "The Sentinel" to foster and keep alive in our own people the flame of civil liberty, a jealousy for their indefeasible rights as American citizens, and an undying devotion to the Constitution and the laws, as the best means for all time to come, of preserving inviolate the Union of the States.

Finally, "The Sentinel" will strive to contribute to the cultivation of the spirit of mutual kindness, forbearance and confidence among our own people, and the restoration of amity and good feeling among the people of all sections of the Union.

North Carolina and her sister Southern States must be rejuvenated and disenthralled from the incubus of poverty and indolence. Vigor, energy, and enterprise must be revived. Our country has been isolated, our people reduced to poverty, but the desert must again be made to bloom and blossom as the rose—our homes have been made cheerless, but they must again be made the abodes of good cheer, refinement and hospitality.

"The Sentinel" will be just and generous to the negro in his new condition, always opening to him the road to improvement and elevation as the reward of his intelligence, his industry and virtue, yet ever bearing in mind that our country is the inheritance of the white race.

Its readers will find "The Sentinel" to be a spirited, reliable and thorough newspaper.
